Summer Opportunities for Language Teachers at Concordia Language Villages

Concordia Language Villages is once again offering two opportunities to take a graduate course on Immersion Methodologies for Language Teachers during the summer of 2004. The 10-day course is taught by Donna Clementi, a nationally recognized workshop presenter, who has been a classroom teacher for 30 years and a staff member of the Villages for 28 years. Course requirements include development of a thematic unit incorporating methods and strategies learned at the Villages, completion of a resource binder and resource file of activities and methodologies used at the Villages, and participation in class discussions based on readings related to second language learning.

Housed at a local university in Bemidji, participants will visit nearby Concordia Language Villages for course activities. The cost for the program includes tuition, food and lodging, class excursions, and instructional material. Upon successful completion of the course, three semester hours of graduate credit are earned through Concordia College, Moorhead, Minnesota.

Program of Chinese Language and Culture at Nanjing University, Summer, 2004

The Chinese Language Teachers Association of Greater New York (CLTA-GNY) cosponsors with Nanjing University for a short-term study program of Chinese language and culture during the summer of 2004.

This short-term program is the ideal opportunity for students who want to learn and improve their Chinese language skills, explore China, and experience Chinese culture firsthand. This program is both intensive and academically rigorous, while also trying to balance out the challenging coursework with interesting cultural and social activities. Studying Chinese language and culture in China, outside an American classroom, offers a unique experience. By exploring the country and interacting with local Chinese students and scholars, students gain valuable insight about the Chinese people and culture—an experience and knowledge that is possible only in China.

Program details are as follows:

Dates: Monday, July 19 to Friday, August 6, 2004

Courses:

- Language classes (conversation class and reading class)
- Cultural classes (Chinese geography, history, politics, society, economy, international trade, foreign relations, traditional culture and customs, etc.), taught in English
- Optional Taiji (taichi) class at request

Class Schedule: Classes are held Monday through Thursday with a total of 4 hours per day and 16 hours per week.

Certification: At the end of the program, Nanjing University will issue three credits.

Accommodations: In foreign student building equipped with central air-conditioning, color TV, telephone, safe and bath.

Classrooms: Air-conditioned

Tours:

The university will organize three optional tours on the weekends:

- First Weekend: Yellow Mountain (the most scenic and breathtaking mountain in China) —three days.
- Shanghai (largest city in China), Suzhou (garden city and one of the two "paradises on earth" in China) and Zhouzhuang (a remarkably intact, 900-year-old Song Dynasty town) —three days.
- Hangzhou (picturesque city and one of the two "paradises on earth" in China) — three days.

The university will also organize a half-day city tour of Nanjing each week free of charge.

Fees:

- Application fee: $30
