Get on Track to Become a Teacher of Chinese with Seton Hall University

- Earn an MA in Asian Studies
- Become eligible to enter the NJ State Department of - - Education alternate route program
- Prepare for the Oral Proficiency Interview requirement for a NJ State Certificate

In Spring 2006, the Department of Asian Studies which has offered graduate courses leading to the Master of Arts degree for over 50 years launched a new graduate track with a concentration in Teaching Chinese Language and Culture. The program will prepare students to meet the Chinese content area requirement for a NJ Certificate of Eligibility (CE). The curriculum includes courses in the Chinese language, literature, history, civilization, Chinese linguistics, applied linguistics, and teaching methods. Upon successful completion of 39 credits, students will receive a Master of Arts in Asian Studies, and be eligible to enter a New Jersey State Department of Education alternate route program.

Admission Requirements

- All candidates are required to demonstrate a strong proficiency in both English & Chinese.
- Non-native speakers of Chinese are required to take the Hanyu Shuiping Kaoshi (HSK), a national standard Chinese language proficiency test.
- International students and those who have received their baccalaureate degrees from universities outside the United States are required to submit official TOEFL scores.

The Department of Asian Studies offers a limited number of teaching assistantships in Chinese. Please check the department's website for details, or contact Dr. Dongdong Chen, Director of Graduate Studies in the Department of Asian Studies at (973) 761-9465, or chen-dong@shu.edu.
