

<http://classes.yale.edu/chns150/conferences/2007nanjing/> at your earliest convenience and submit it before November 30, 2006.

Those who intend to present a paper at the Conference should send the paper abstract (no more than one page) as a file attached to an e-mail message to Dr. Wenchao He at wh3@nyu.edu and Dr. Ling Mu at ling.mu@yale.edu before January 31, 2007. The reviewing team formed by the Conference Committee will review the paper abstracts anonymously and will also notify paper abstract submitters of the status of their paper abstracts in March 2007.

Those whose paper abstracts are accepted will need to send the completed papers to Dr. Wenchao He at wh3@nyu.edu by May 31, 2007 so as to be included in the Conference Proceedings to be published. The Conference Committee reserves the right to review a completed paper again if it is drastically different from its original paper abstract. The format and other requirements of the paper will be provided in the acceptance letter.

Post-Conference Tours: 1) Confucius hometown Qufu & Taishan Mountain, 2) Huangshan Mountain, 3) Nanjing. Suggestions for tours to other nearby places are also welcome. Final decisions on tours will be made after all suggestions are collected.

Saturday, April 28, 2007

For the past fourteen years, the East Asian Studies Program at Princeton University has sponsored an annual conference on Chinese language instruction. We are pleased to announce that we are holding another conference next year, on Saturday, April 28, 2007, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. We invite proposals for presentations concerning research on Chinese language learning and teaching. The conference aims to include, but is not limited to, proposals on the following themes:

- * Development of Materials
- * Culture in Language Study
- * Testing and Assessment
- * Language Learning for Heritage Students

- * Innovative Classroom Applications of Second Language Acquisition Theories
- * Computer-Assisted Language Learning
- * Chinese Programs Abroad

Proposal Requirements and Submission: Presentations may be up to 15 minutes long. Please submit a one-page abstract, either in English or in Chinese. We strongly encourage submissions by e-mail, but they may also be sent by mail. Please address it to:
